PG Exhibits Adds Greg Miller to Its Team
Sales Veteran Helps Position The Company for Continued Growth

Denver, Colo. – March 26, 2007 – PG Exhibits, an award-winning leader in three dimensional exhibit design and logistics management, announces the addition of Greg Miller as senior account manager. Miller brings more than 11 years of tradeshow and exhibit industry experience to his new position. He has worked closely with clients in the development, design, management and implementation of tradeshow and events programs worldwide.

“We are very excited that Greg has joined the PG Exhibits team,” said Jim McGrath, president of PG Exhibits. “He has a solid history of listening to clients to fulfill their vision, as well as developing new accounts, both of which will help us further build our business.”

As a senior account manager, Miller will be responsible for developing tradeshow and event programs for new and existing clients. He will also handle onsite management and support of client programs as well as review and develop new programs.

PG Exhibits creates dynamic three dimensional, integrated exhibit marketing solutions for tradeshow and high image environments. PG Exhibits has been bringing brands to life and serving the international marketplace for over 15 years. From design through construction, to on-site show services, PG Exhibits enables clients to express their story and capitalize on their points of differentiation. Some of PG Exhibits most notable clients include Red Robin, Gates Corporation, Western Union, Lockheed Martin, First Data Corp and Johns Manville. For more information, visit www.pgexhibits.com.
